

The current No-Call regulation is barely strong enough. To loosen in now demonstrates that the government answers to corporations instead of the citizens of this country. The rule allows citizens to say "no" to telemarketers. What part of "no" don't you understand?